

The coat of arms of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts is a shield with a red border. It features a central gold pine tree. To the left of the tree is a white arm holding a broadsword. To the right is a white bent arm holding a bow. Above the tree is a gold crest consisting of a wreath and a bent arm holding a broadsword. The shield is divided into three sections by the tree and the arms.

